Dear OLQH Families,

It was wonderful to see so many participants in our fall parent teacher conferences. We are very interested in having a partnership with you and in working with you to help your child achieve many successes this school year. Here are some suggestions of what you can do to help maintain strong parent teacher partnerships:

- Talk with your child about school each day (for example, ask them to tell you something good that happened at school) and review the information the school sends home.
- Monitor your child's schoolwork. If your child struggles with an assignment, ask the teacher how you can help.
- Make sure your child has everything they need to complete their assignments.
- Review the school handbook and teacher expectations with your child. Let your child know that you expect them to follow the school rules as well as their teacher's expectations.

Thank you for choosing Our Lady Queen of Heaven School for your child's education needs. We are happy to be a partner in your child's success!

May the unending love of God be with you.

Sincerely,
Ms. Shelley Bruley

October Library News

In library, we have been getting to know our friends Danny and Darla and the power to choose. Danny and Darla are presented with different challenges they can face in school and at home. The students lead the story as they pick which direction it should go. Do they make the right decision or not...

We have enjoyed reading stories about Halloween. We recently read Spookley the Square Pumpkin, and talked about the importance of being unique and different from everyone else. The library has been transformed into a beautiful pumpkin patch of our own unique Spookley's.

Each grade has a punch card for library, and each time the whole class brings back their library books as a class, they receive a punch. This is promoting teamwork, responsibility, and encouraging everyone to work together for a common goal.

The students have library every Tuesday.
