Dear OLQH Families,

We are continuing our monthly study on the virtue of fortitude. A person with fortitude practices patience when meeting obstacles. They do what is right, even when others criticize them. In order to assist our children in practicing fortitude, we need to provide them with opportunities to participate in tasks that require effort and model situations that allow them to take a stand. As our children learn from our example, we can also model for them what it means to practice fortitude. Through cultivating virtues in our children we can help shape their hearts and habits.

Raising a successful elementary aged student is definitely a team effort, and we appreciate you being a part of this important team. Every time you read at home with your child, get them to bed on time, talk with them about their day, pray with them, limit their media use of TV, video games, and Internet, you are contributing to their success at school.

We look forward to seeing you on Tuesday, April 23, for our upcoming spring concert. Our students are excited to sing for you!

Sincerely,
Ms. Shelley Bruley
